'The Raven' Louis Courard is dying of leprosy the lepers near Canton, China, the friends of the priest, says 'The Raven' (Milwaukee), will appreciate the pathos of this simple statement. This paper goes on to the career of this hero and martyr. We read:

The tragedy in his despairing sense of failure success within his grasp, expressed a letter written by him a few months when he felt the malady creeping upon and felt himself physically unable to the battle before him.
He wrote:

'I am not, but hope that God will give me a few more to work among the lepers.
'I have in well: it would be easy now to go. If I can only live five years more.

'If I were 40 years old—then I feared no old nothing.'

Father only was born in Belgium in 1841, was educated for the missionary priest in Paris, being ordained in 1867. He spent seven years as a missionary in India and then came to the United States labouring in the same capacity among the tribes of the Northwest.

During fourteen years that he was engaged in his work he went through a number of hard wars, being present at many battles and won the friendship of President Grant on a trip to Washington in behalf of his redskin charges. He also became naturalized American citizen.

In 1888 heard of the illness of Father Damien, young Belgian priest, whose life and death in the leper colony of Mo-kai evoked the famous letter. He wrote and asked if he could be of assistance and on receiving an affirmative reply he set out for Hawaii. He was Father Damien's companion for a year, and after the latter's death continued his work seven years.

The American occupation and the support of the colony by the State made individual efforts no longer essential, so he set out for Canton, China, where he had heard that the lepers were neglected.

He found conditions worse than he had imagined. Thousands of lepers lived in huts in the open air and were cared for by no one. He decided that a knowledge of medicine would be necessary to carry on the work, and so he returned to Hawaii, where he took a degree.

He hoped to take a medical college.
Belgium for a short visit, but finding that his old Indian charges were without a pastor, changed his plans, and for four years worked among them in the Oregon mountains.

He then went to China and took up his work there. He soon found, however, that he could accomplish nothing without money, and money he could not get.
He went home to Belgium, but after two years' inactivity, at the age of 66 years, he came to the United States, determined to raise the necessary money to launch a mission for the Chinese lepers.

In two years he had raised $30,000 and set out for Canton. He spoke several times in Chicago.

While soliciting funds in the United States in March, 1908, for the work, Father Courard was quoted in Duluth, Minn., as saying:

'Leprosy is not as contagious as people imagine it to be. Only one person out of ten ever succumbs to it after exposure. I do not fear it in the least. I trust to the Providence of God to preserve me from being the tenth person.'

That was about a year ago. He bought an island in the river sixty miles from Canton, transported there 600 lepers, and built them shelters. This took $10,000 of his money, and from the remainder he had an income of $1,000 a year. As he was physician, nurse, attendant, office force and executive head for the colony, and as food cost only 3 cents a day for each person, he was in a fair way to carry his great burden.

But in his last letter he complained of the unusually 'bad leprosy,' the river-pirates, the weakness of age, and illness. And now he is dying.

Two ladies—Miss William Beresford, son of the late Lily Duchess of Marlborough and Lord William Beresford, and Louis Gordon 'Hammerley'—are the central figures in a battle for wealth which after many years of peace has been re-opened in New York. The fortune involved is $1,150,000 left to the duchess for life by the late Mr. Louis Hammerley, her first husband. It is contended that the fortune amounts to $3,000,000 and an account of it is demanded by the executors of the duchess on behalf of her fourteen-year-old son, who, it is argued has a right to the increment due to his mother's successful use of the fortune. This accounting is opposed by seventy-one members of the house of Hammerley, who demand that the duchess's will be declared invalid. The legal array on behalf of the American claimants is the most imposing ever seen at an American trial. No fewer than twenty-three prominent law firms in New York have been engaged to press the claims of the different branches of the family, who represent some of the wealthiest people in New York.

PROFESSIONAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

AMERICAN OCULIST AND OPTICIAN.
Specialist in Examining and Refracting the Eye and Correcting Defective Vision.

KING EDWARD HOTEL ANNEX No. 21.

HAS the pleasure again of announcing to the Citizens of Hongkong that he has opened a consulting room at the above address and will remain till JUNE 27th, a short yet sufficient time to give those desiring his services the opportunity of consulting him if they will make an appointment at their earliest convenience.
He is fully prepared as before with the most modern instruments and apparatus for thoroughly examining and refracting the eye according to the latest and most approved methods as employed in the Metropolitan Eye Infirmary, and has the largest supply and greatest variety of all desirable kinds and styles of mountings and lenses of the best quality ever brought to Hongkong including several thousand different spheroidal cylindrical and prismatic lenses made specially to order for the correction of astigmatism, and other ocular defects which the common spherical lenses will not correct. Those having eye trouble or defective vision, who suffer from eye-ache, head-ache, inflammation of the eyes or lids or weakness of the ocular muscles, and those who are already using glasses which, in most cases are not the kind required—would do well to avail themselves of the exceptional opportunity and unsurpassed facilities which are offered now for examining and refracting the eyes and procuring glasses of the right kind—an opportunity which for completeness of apparatus and supply of lenses, thoroughness of examination, perfection of refraction which brings the vision up to the highest possible standard, and perfectly satisfactory results, has never before been equalled in this Colony nor exalted abroad as those who consult him are willing to attest. Being certificated in optics as in medicine, with over 20 years' professional experience, and having thousands of references and testimonials from well known and influential citizens of many countries including several British Colonies and Hongkong, which he visited in 1908, Dr. Lamb can assure those in need of his services the most thorough reliable and satisfactory professional work, and all glasses he supplies to patients are warranted to be correct.
Charges reasonable. Hours 9 to 12 A.M. and 2 to 5 P.M.

THE ATTITUDE OF THE AGE TOWARDS SCIENCE AND RELIGION.ONE of the most curious of the changes which the twentieth century has brought about relates to Science and Religion.In the Victorian age the popular opinion was most undoubtedly that they were opposed one to the other and men took their sides generally according as theywere more imbued with the sentiments of the one or the other. The idea of antagonism between them has of late years quite died out, probably becauseit was a false notion, but it has not been observed that these irreconcilable enemies are now treated in preciselythe same manner by those (and they are a very large number) who do not profess to be specially interested in either. Ask the man in the streetwhether he believes that the theory of evolution is the true explanation of the origin of life upon the earth and youare pretty sure to get an answer more or less of this character: "Oh, probably, I don't profess to have studied the question, and really know very little about it. For my part I endeavour tokeep an open mind on all such matters and am quite ready to be convinced either way;" and the bystander who has overheard the remark thinks that the speaker is an exceedingly broad mind-ed man, which is probably the opinion of the speaker himself.The chances that such a man will ever be convinced at all are surely very remote. Truth must be sought for by effort; generally by very strenuous and earnest effort, if it is to be found at all. Neither does it make its appealto large bodies of men at one time; on the contrary, it is by individuals only that it can be appreciated. It is true that it may be discovered by a single mind, and that so discovered the way to its hiding place may bepointed out by him with clearness. Still until the road has been worn by many feet the track is not so plain that it can be followed with ease or certainty by others, and there is for a long time much work to be done in removing obstacles and levelling the road. Are we then not becoming careless of this duty, leaving the pursuit and worship of truth for its own sake solely to the very few, indifferent as to whether truth is discovered at all, battling on the results achieved in the past age and refusing to push the research that our sons and grandsons may be in the like position as ourselves is a vision, with flattery ourselves that our indifference is a broad-minded tolerance, and leaving to a few scattered volunteers the work which is properly our own.It was not thus in the past. The nineteenth century had its pioneers and we would not if we could belittle their work, but the rank and file fought earnestly on that side or the other and certainly thought that the truth was worth fighting for. We should probably have our pioneers in the present age also but whether their labour will be as heartily appreciated on the one side and as sincerely contested on the other is perhaps doubtful. This is probably what was meant by Mr. ENOCH, the returned colonist, who recently electrified intellectual circles at home by accusing the present age as one of slackness and of less strenuous effort to arrive at reliable opinion than characterised the period at which he had emigrated. There is but too much reason to fear that he is a careful and competent observer. In one sense he is probably in error, the age is assuredly as active, determined, and laborious as the last; but its activity is misdirected, its aims are those only which promise immediate and material benefits to the workers and it is not ourselves but our successors who will be called upon to reap the reward of our own slackness.Much of what has been said is equally applicable to the religious opinions of the present day, as any person or missionary will tell you.

Science and religion are travelling in the same boat. It is a small one, and the dangers of navigating it are considerable. The officers of both branches are able but the crew appear to be unsympathetic.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The German Mail of the 4th May was delivered in London on the 4th inst.That most beautiful of flowering narcissus, the Flame of the Forest, is now to be seen in full beauty in many parts of Hongkong.The Colonial Secretary is in receipt of a telegram to the effect that quarantine restrictions have been imposed at Chefoo on arrivals from Amoy and Foochow.The Gazette notifies that the valuation list for the Colony for 1910-11 will be open for inspection at the Treasury for twenty-one days, commencing to-day, 6th June.The breaking of the southwest monsoon came as a welcome relief to Swatow, where the long drought had begun to cause inconvenience to more than the farming population.The Straits Times continues to keep a vigilant eye on the rubber market. In a recent article it deplored the attitude of Sir William Treacher, an old Straits Settlements official, in taking up so many directionships in rubber companies.A regulation has been made by the Office Administering the Government in-Council to the effect that "No liquor shall be sold or having been sold shall be drunk upon any licensed premises except between the hours of 6 a.m. and 12 midnight."Messrs Ellis and Ellis in their weekly rubber circular, dated June 2nd, state:— The rubber market generally has had a smart set back during the week under review, and only a small business has been put through. Prices for most of the sterling stocks have depreciated considerably, but now show an improving tendency.
The Singapore market continues quiet with but a few transactions to record. The latest telegraphic advice for Para Rubber is 9/11.Under new rules made for the Kowloon and Victoria British Schools the fees payable monthly in advance are:—For first child of one family, Upper School $5; Lower School $3; for the second of two or more children of the same family at attendance together, Upper School $4, Lower School $2; for the third of three or more children of same family at attendance together, Upper School $3, Lower School $2. Where children of the same family are attending both schools, the reduction of fees to second and subsequent children will be applied as if the children were all in attendance at

NEW OF THE DAY.

Forty-on Chinamen have been arrested in Yokohama for selling lottery tickets.Kobe was the Interport Four and Interport Six at the Yokohama Spring Regatta. Yokohama won the sailing races.The Nanking Exhibition—the first of its kind in China—was opened on Sunday at Nanking to a ceremony passing off without a hitch, say our Shanghai correspondent.There are 200 European and 120 Chinese visitors to the City Hall Library, and 147 European and 1,768 Chinese visitors to the Museum during the week ended the 30 June.There have only been three cases of communicable disease notified in the Colony during the last week, none being fatal.
They are two of enteric fever (one Chinese and one imported Portuguese) and one Chinese case of plague.An invasion which will be greatly appreciated by tourists passing through Hongkong, provided by a table, giving the fares for stated portions of an hour, which now makes its appearance on the public notice of the Colony.Anonymous letters are reaching the Legations in Peking, giving warning of an anti-dynastic rising. If foreigners do not go to the help of the Manchus they will be unharmful—otherwise they will be involved in the general massacre. Naturally, some disquiet is felt.In the cricket matches played on May 30 and 31 and June 1, Sussex beat Notts at Brighton by 78 runs; Lancashire beat Warwickshire at Birmingham by an innings and 43 runs; and Gloucestershire beat Surrey at the Oval by six wickets. The match between Yorkshire and Hampshire, at Bradford was abandoned.It is satisfactory to learn that as the result of the recent drought only about 30 per cent. of the rice crops in the West River valley has been spoiled, and that there is every prospect of the remainder resulting in a good yield. With the appearance of the much-needed rain everything is quite normal and quiet.Fashions at home are reaching a pretty pass. Writing to a lady friend in Hongkong from London a correspondent says:"The dresses are most queer. They are as 'tip' as 'clip' can be. Without exaggeration, ladies cannot take their ordinary stride with them on. Ladies are not now seen walking, they hobble along."The American Army transport Indianapolis, which has been used to make regular trips between Manila, Corregidor and Guantanamo, sank in 20 fathoms of water about 2 o'clock on the afternoon of June 2nd by striking a log one mile off Luzon Point. There were 20 members of the crew and six passengers on board, all of whom were saved.The returns of the average amounts of bank notes in circulation and of specie in reserve in Hongkong during the month ended 31st May, 1910, as certified by the managers of the respective banks, give the following particulars:—Chartered Bank—notes, $3,295,375; specie, $4,000,000.
Hongkong and Shanghai Bank—notes, $11,104,535; specie, $13,000,000. National Bank of China—notes, $34,721; specie, nil.The traces of an attempted robbery were disclosed at Messrs David Sassoon's godown in Mason Lane at 2 p.m. on Saturday. An opium clearance was commenced from the godown at this time when it was noticed that the lock on one of the doors had been filed through and the lock on the other door had been filed partially through. It is surmised that the thief or thieves intended to make a theft of opium at some favourable time and intended filing through both locks so that if they were discovered by anyone entering at one door they could make a bolt for it through the other. They were evidently disturbed while at work on the second lock.The proposed increase of railroad freight rates has aroused bitter resentment throughout the United States. A storm of protest, says a Manila telegram, is going up from the press of the agricultural and stock-raising sections. The Government is being urged to interpose and prevent the new rates going into effect. It is estimated that the arbitrary rise in rates would net Wall Street over $1,000,000,000. The rise is made by the roads on the pretext that it is necessary because of a recent increase in the pay of the employees of the roads.
Political capital is being made out of the action of the roads throughout the sections most affected. A later message says that the Interstate Commerce Commission has intervened and forbidden the companies to raise their rates.CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.WHEN you fail to provide your family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at this season of the year, you are neglecting them, as bowel complaint is sure to be prevalent, and it is too dangerous a malady to be trifled with. This is especially true if there are children in the family. A dose of this remedy will plan the trouble within control and perhaps save life, or at least a doctor's bill. It has never been known to fail even in the most severe and dangerous cases, and its cost is not beyond the means of any one. For sale by all chemists and druggists.

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER.

THE world's most successful medicine for bowel complaints is Chamberlain's bolted and ran into an electric light or telegraph pole, throwing Mrs. Meugens violently against the pole, which caused severe injuries to her head. Mrs. Meugens was unconscious for four or five days before she died. We understand the pony Mrs.

Meugens was riding was a vicious beast and had thrown people several times before.According to a London telegram printed by the N. O. Daily News, Professor Santaro Okomaten, a Director of the South Manchurian Railway Company, replying to a letter from Messrs. Pauling and Company in The Times, declares that there does not exist the slightest fact to countenance the assertion that Japan opposed the construction of the Chinchou-Aigun Railway. Japan only wishes to participate in its financing and the supply of materials and engineers and also wishes to construct a junction line between a point on the proposed railway and a point on the main Manchurian line, by which the economic development of Manchuria would be stimulated. Finally Professor Okomaten denies that Japan ever attempted to interfere with the right of China to develop the resources within her own territory. In the same connection it is interesting to note that the New York Times, "regrettably" attacking President Taft for inactivity in regard to the Manchurian question, declares that the Americans have gone very far towards making themselves a nonentity in the Far East, and adds that there are good grounds for believing that the interests of Germany and the United States in the Orient are so nearly identical, that diplomatic action in support of a common policy might have been had lately.AMERICA IN ASIA

London, June 6.

A Papal encyclical issued on the occasion of the tercentenary of Saint Charles Borromeo has caused a storm of indignation in Prussia, owing to the Pope's strictures on Protestant Reformers contemporary with Saint Charles Borromeo.The encyclical was the subject of interpellations in the Diet, where a demand was made for Government action to prevent a repetition of the offence.(Note.—Count Charles Borromeo, a Saint of the Church of Rome, was a nephew of Pope Pius IV. On his uncle being raised to the pontificate Borromeo was, notwithstanding his youth, appointed to a number of high offices, being made a Cardinal and Archbishop of Milan. The Pope made him his grand penitentiary and did nothing considerable without his cooperation. It was in a great measure due to his influence that the re-opening of the Council of Trent was accomplished and its deliberations brought to a conclusion so favourable to the Papal Throne. He brought about an that the expenditure totalled $654,111.33.

There was thus a balance of $1,546,586.50.
On the general account at the end of the

THE MURDER AT CANTON.

Suicide of Assassin.

Death of Mr. Martin.
Our Canton correspondent telegraphing on Saturday—his message arrived after he had gone to press—corroborated the sad news which we gave in our last issue of the tragedy which had occurred on the river steamer Kwangtung that morning. It seems that Mr. Martin found that a Chinese passenger on board had bullets secreted on his person, in a belt attached to his waist. He accordingly proceeded to search the man thoroughly, when the ruffian, who was a well-dressed man, suddenly drew a revolver and shot Mr. Martin, one of the bullets striking him in the head, the other in the abdomen. The man then fired indiscriminately all around, to keep any one from reaching him, and, seizing his opportunity, sprang into a scumpan, the occupants of which at once decamped. Police assistance was signalled for and, although the escape was hopeless, the murderer discharged the revolver into his own throat, death being instantaneous.

The Tact of Constabulary is of opinion that the murderer is a famous pirate who has long been wanted.

When our correspondent sent off his message, Mr. Martin was lying in a very precarious condition, the doctors considering his case hopeless.

A message received on Sunday said that the victim of the sad tragedy, died on Saturday evening.

Eye witnesses of the unprovoked outrage all testify to the high courage of Mr. Martin after he was shot.

THE PORT OF HONGKONG.

Its Position Unchallenged.

MR. ROBERT SHEWAN INTERVIEWED.
In all the great shipping centres of the world the annual report of Commander Basil Taylor, R.N., Harbour Master of Hongkong—the third largest port in the world—will be read with the greatest interest. Indeed, its contents will not only be invaluable to other ports but manufacturers and exporters in all the great cities will also glean from its pages information which will be of the utmost value to them.

The figures presented give no cause for uneasiness as to whether Hongkong is maintaining its position as one of the largest ports in the world, rather the contrary, for they show, taking them all round, a general improvement over last year.

“Were it only for the fact that Hongkong is maintaining its position as a leading shipping centre there is not the slightest reason to be pessimistic as to its future,” said Mr. Robert Shewan, who most courteously received a China Mail representative this morning.

The tendency of the present day was for larger ships and Mr. Shewan was of the opinion that “bigger ships would be built in future. The figures presented by the Harbour Master were distinctly encouraging and gave not the slightest reason for pessimism. Everything pointed to the reverse, particularly in view of the recent great trade depression experienced in all parts of the world.”

“The number of tourists coming to Hongkong is on the increase and would continue to increase with larger and faster steamers, and if greater comfort and facilities were offered to travellers, while the time it took to reach this port having been reduced to little over three weeks from London, New York or any of the other principal cities in the world, was another great factor.”

“It was a absurd to think that because there had been a slight decline in any one particular business, such as sugar, that Hongkong was losing ground. Times changed with inevitable results, and it was for the Colony to be ever on the look out for fresh openings in the matter of business.”

“Again it must necessarily happen in the course of time that China coast ports and their trade would expand while other ports would be opened, but instead of proving rivals to Hongkong they would only serve to heighten its importance as an industrial and distributing centre. More Chinese would come here and with the opening of the railway much more business would accrue. Anyone had only to visit Kowloon to see how rapidly it was being developed, and that was a sign of Hongkong's increased prosperity.”

Speaking with regard to the increase in the number and tonnage of Japanese steamers, Mr. Shewan considered it was due to the great liabilities which had recently been put on the run to America, as well as in a general improvement in the European service.

“It is only a few years ago,” added Mr. Shewan, “that all the vessels coming to this port used to anchor in the centre of the harbour, while at the present time the anchorages stretch almost to Green Island, while there has also been a considerable increase in the anchorage on the Eastern side.”

CORRESPONDENCE.

CONCERTS ON MACAO BOATS.

(To the Editor of the “CHINA MAIL.”)
Sir, I am glad to see that we are to have regular band concerts on the Macao boats, but, I would, through your columns, ask for alternative ones on the Sui An as well as the Hengshan, the captain of the former being very popular with all.

Many wish to know some days in advance when the musical Sundays are. Cannot the business-like and courteous Secretary arrange his big day alternately? Then we could arrange for parties.

Some of us would also like to join in part-singing with the band. Could this be arranged?—Yours, etc.,

CLAIM AGAINST EX-GOVERNMENT SERVANT.

In the Court of Summary Jurisdiction.

In the Court of Summary Jurisdiction, this morning, before Mr. Justice Hazell, a claim was brought by Messrs. Chai, J. Gaupp and Co., jewellers, etc., against John Grant, formerly a surveyor employed in the P.W.D. Mr. J. H. Gardner appeared on behalf of defendant and stated that the debt was admitted.

Defendant also appeared in Court, being in charge of two Indian warders from Victoria Gaol.

His Lordship—Do you admit this claim? Defendant—Yes.

Judgment was entered for plaintiffs with costs.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENTS.

Marine Lot No. 20.

At the 25th ordinary annual meeting of Messrs. A. S. Watson and Co. Ltd., held on May 31st, the Chairman mentioned that this property, now occupied by Watson's Aerated Water Factory, had been sold by the company for $165,000. We hear that the purchasers are the Land Investment Company, Limited, and that the premises will be handed over in May next year (1911), the purchase taking effect from about that date. Messrs. Wm. Powell, Ltd., who now are housed opposite in the Alexandra Buildings, will, we understand, move across the road and enter the building under discussion, while the Aerated Water Factory, is to be accommodated in new premises which will be built on Messrs. Fenwick and Co.'s Reclamation Ground at North Point, with a depot to be established in Des Vaux Road.

HONGKONG'S NEW INDIAN REGIMENT.

The 3rd Brahmins, which will take the place of the 13th Rajputs at Hongkong, is a fine old corps with a good reputation for soldierly qualities. It came into existence in 1793 and bore various titles at various times, and before getting its present one four years ago was known as the 3rd Brahman Infantry, and before that it was styled the 3rd Bengal Native Infantry, and at a still more remote period it was designated the 32nd Native Infantry, or “Gatrick's Paltan.” It is composed of eight companies of Brahmins, the highest caste Hindus, and is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel P. B. Warren, with Major W. E. Colver in command. Its uniform is scarlet with facings of black and white lace.

Raised, as already indicated, in 1793, it did good service in the campaign against Holar in 1804-05, and was prominently engaged at the siege and capture of the renowned fortress of Bharrpur by General Lord Lake, which is commemorated on its colours by the word “Bharrpur.” It served in minor affairs and also rendered exceptionally good service in the Afghan war of 30 years ago, its services in that country being marked by the honour of “Afghanistan” (1879-80) on the regimental colours. It is presently stationed at Agra, where the 13th Rajputs will move from Hongkong when relieved in the usual course.

THE CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY.

Although critics, and others who assert that they are “in the know,” are constantly finding fault with the condition of affairs and the confusion that obtains among those who are responsible for the progress of the Canton-Hankow line, nevertheless some progress appears to have been made. From Wong-sha the line was continued to Shekpeihang, on the North River. This means a distance of one hundred and fifty li. (A li is about one-third of an English mile). Since then a further addition has been made which has also been opened for traffic. It now has reached old Wangshak. This adds something like ten more li to the line. Generally speaking more than one hundred and sixty li have been laid down, and opened to traffic. The entire distance to be covered is about seven hundred li, so that unless the progress is more rapid in the future than in the past some years yet must elapse before a traveller from Hongkong can travel to Peking by rail. There is therefore some ground for complaint on the part of those who are anxious to see more rapid progress, for apart from any serious misadministration of money, it must be admitted that progress is very slow.

A MILITARY EXECUTION.

What seems a mishap, though the evidence is not clear, has cost a soldier his head. In one of the country districts near Shingchow some robbers were at work, when soldiers came upon the scene. In the midst of the melée, a man was seen running away, and a particular soldier shouted to him to stop. The man being very much afraid, went the faster. Thereupon the soldier raised his rifle to his shoulder and fired. He shot the fugitive dead on the spot. The relatives of the man brought an accusation against the unfortunate warrior, and the case was gone into by the Yuenan magistrate, the man being sentenced to some years imprisonment. But the relatives were not satisfied with this sentence, and carried the case to a higher court. Whether the higher official was afraid or was convinced that the affair was an accident, does not appear, but he commanded the soldier to be handed back to the military authorities, who were instructed to lift his head from his shoulders. This has now been done. Very Chinese justice is a singular proceeding, and even yet, notwithstanding all professions to the contrary, human life is reckoned as little worth. Apparently the old law, “an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth” still obtains. This law was in vogue in the days of Confucius.

HAMBURG-AMERICA LINE.

Claims by Chinese Seamen.

In the Court of Summary Jurisdiction this morning, before Mr. Justice Hazell, six cases were called in which the defendants were the Hamburg-America Steamship Company, the plaintiffs in each instance being Chinese seamen. The claims were for wages and were for varying amounts, totalling some $530. Mr. Hung was for the plaintiffs and Mr. E. Davidson for the defendant Company.

Mr. Hung said all the cases raised the same issue and he asked that a test case be tried in order to save expenses.

Mr. Davidson said he could not consent to that, and asked that the cases be remanded for a week. He was not so sure that all these raised the same issue. The proper course was to make such an application in chambers. A considerable amount of money was involved, and he did not think that orders of the kind asked for should be made off-hand in Court.

Mr. Hung said all his clients were poor seamen, and if he took out six summonses the expenses would be greatly increased. Mr. Davidson said if the application were granted they would have to go into the law at length, for it raised complex issues. “It was not a simple matter at all.”

His Lordship adjourned the cases for a week, suggesting that each of the parties should furnish the other with a short written statement of the documents they possessed.

THE WORLD MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

Co-operation and the Promotion of Unity.

The overwhelming magnitude of the task which confronts the Christian Church at the present time in the Mission field makes more concerted action on the part of the numerous bodies responsible for the conduct of missionary work a matter of vital and urgent necessity.

When we try to see the whole face of Christianity in its relation to the whole of the non-Christian world, it is impossible to escape from the conviction that one of the largest and most serious problems is the problem of our divisions.

In confronting the gigantic task which is called to discharge in the present century, the Church is weakened and hampered by the lack of unity. Has the approaching Conference (June 14-23), any contribution to make to the solution of this most central of problems? Directly it has none, in spite of this Commission on Co-operation and the Promotion of Unity. The Commission will not deal with questions of re-union, but entirely outside the scope of the Conference.

The only terms on which such a Conference can be held are that the differences which at present separate Christian people should be frankly recognised, and that none who take part in the Conference should be asked to surrender or compromise in any respect their conscientious convictions.

It is a fallacy to imagine that in concerted action we shall find a solution for real differences of belief and sentiment. The only way to a real unity of truth which alone can provide a basis for union.

The unity which we are bound to strive after is not one that ignores differences and treats them as unimportant, but one that takes up into itself the diverse elements of the Church, and seeks to establish in the effort to overcome real and conflicting positions and thus attains to a larger, richer and truer catholicity.

The thing that is going to compel us all to face the question is the pressure of the non-Christian millions of Asia and Africa. The other side of establishing in the effort to overcome real and conflicting positions and thus attains to a larger, richer and truer catholicity.

Evidence of a most impressive kind has already been given in the case of the Congo and growing desire in the mission field for unity. In many fields, but notably in China, this desire is finding increasing practical expression. At the Centenary Missionary Conference at Shanghai in 1907, this subject of Co-operation and unity bulked larger than any other in the various deliberations. As a practical outcome two influential and representative committees were appointed to work towards the goal of the unity along different lines. The one is to influence the Commission regarding the Congo and growing desire in the mission field for unity. In many fields, but notably in China, this desire is finding increasing practical expression.

In India also movements in the direction of unity have within the last few years developed with great rapidity.

We may therefore justly expect that through that thorough study of such facts as these and others similar to them, the conviction will be deepened that over against all the non-Christian systems of thought and conduct, there is a Christian way of God and of the world, a Christian ideal of character, and a Christian Gospel of redemption, and that the unity of the faith must have witness borne to it by a united body.

Moreover, while it is true that concerted action yields no solution of genuine differences, and is harmful if it leads to a superficial minimising of such differences, it is also true that the statement of true unity is not a purely intellectual process, but demands certain moral sympathies and impulses.

Our intellectual perceptions become keener and truer when some lofty demand vitalizes our moral and spiritual energies. May we not expect that a common conviction on the part of Christians, each according to the light given to him, to respond loyally to the present missionary opportunity, we shall find the best preparation for any serious endeavour to bring nearer the unity of the Church?

While there will be no place in the Conference for the consideration of the questions that separate Christians from one another, ought we not to pray that it may deepen in all bodies of Christians the desire for unity and prepare the way for facing frankly a problem so vitally related to the fulfilment by the Church of its mission to the world? And thus bring nearer the fulfilment of Our Lord and Master's own prayer—that they may be perfected into one, that the world may know that Thou didst send Me.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LONDON, May 18.

We have hardly adjusted our minds to the changed conditions prevailing here yet. For there were a fortnight ago with what seemed the brightest season on record before us. Shopkeepers looked for a rich harvest and those in the social swim were planning receptions and balls that would cramp the calendar to bursting point.

And then, suddenly, came the attack and the great King lay dead in the midst of a staggered nation. And as I write the people are staggered still, though they have talked and read of nothing but the change of monarchs for many days. Never has there been such a display of real grief for a ruler from all classes, rich and poor, ranging from religious enthusiasts to sporting men. Even Socialists and Nationalists speak as of a lost friend—the magnanimity and human sympathy of King Edward had won them all.

All of which makes it hard for the new King. But he has won great praise from all who have come in contact with him since he came to his demureous responsibilities. Remember that though he has not been in public training for as long as his father was during Queen Victoria's days, he has been in quiet training, for during the last few years he has had his desk in Buckingham Palace and there has lifted part of the load of state affairs from the shoulders of his father. And he is no shirker of work either. What he takes in hand he does thoroughly, a fact that has its darker side, for he is not a very robust man and if matters are rougher than most men. But he has made a great start and though he is somewhat at a disadvantage in following so illustrious a father he has staunch admirers among those who know him well and they predict that he will leave the throne the Throne undimmed, even considering the high esteem to which Queen Victoria and King Edward raised it.

Moreover, he is aided by an essentially British and thoroughly sensible wife, on whose judgment he relies to a far greater extent than most men, and he has already publicly acknowledged the help he receives from her.

It is in the role of domestic adviser that she finds her chief delight, for she is the lover of social excitement. In fact the lover of the new Court is quiet and reserved to an extent not known since the later days of Queen Victoria.

All sorts of reminiscences are in print about the new rulers. The story is told that Queen Victoria one day had to receive that Queen Victoria who is now King George and she sent him under the table as a punishment. Suspicious quiet set in, so in a few minutes the Queen peeped under the table cloth—to be confronted by the grinning face of a mischievous boy-servant naked and with his discarded clothes.

And of the new Queen it is related that she was remarkably loyal to the late Queen Victoria. One day her governess told her to draw a map of the world from memory. Presently she gave up the attempt, and said, “Oh, yes, I know where it is, but Grandmama is angry with China just now and it has no right to a place on my map.”

Of all the foreign correspondents and newsmen who flock to London the chief interest of course centres in the Kaiser and ex-President Roosevelt. They have been compared so often that it is interesting to see them side by side. Dissimilar in figure and general appearance, they are yet a striking similarity in their vigour and impulsiveness. When the Kaiser comes over here in these sympathetic errands he becomes for the time a popular man in these islands and I think it shows that it would take no superhuman effort to create a real cordial feeling between Germany and England—were it not for the fact that powerful interests, journalistic and others are constantly working against it.

We had prospects of a remarkable influx of Americans this morning for there was the Festival of Empire and Pageant of London and a whole host of other functions to attract sightseers. The social season seemed to throbb with Trans-Atlantic vitality. Now all that is reduced to bare bones. The Horse show remains, but the Festival of Empire and Pageant of London is gone, and so are all the balls, banquet and receptions that were to be given by wealthy Anglo-Americans and others quartered for the time in the great mansions of the West End.

Since Prince has had floods there has been a lingering fear that the Summer would bring disease to the waterlogged city, so thousands of Americans proposed to make London their headquarters instead of the Gay City. Now if they wait a while, they may have to choose between either corner of Europe—so London loses millions by the migration.

It is understood that Prince Edward, who has now become the Duke of Cornwall, will have to wait some time before he can receive the title of Prince of Wales. It is purely a personal gift of the sovereign and has been so since Edward I. conferred it on his son. The late King kept King George waiting fully a year before conferring the title on him.

But Prince Edward, who has rich revenues with the Cornwall title, for the Duchy of Cornwall yields something like £80,000 a year and the value is increasing, for of late a good many leases of the Duchy in London have been falling in. The next five years—“all he comes of age—the income will accumulate, so when the young Prince comes into his own he will have a good start ready for him. It was with such an accumulation of money that the late King bought Sandringham, his favourite East Anglian home, where he enjoyed himself as farmer and sportsman.

Prince Albert is to go into the Navy but from now on the Duke of Cornwall, according to tradition, will join the military service. Their projected tour of the Empire will be postponed from this summer to the end of next year.

What did the Royal funeral cost? About £40,000 may be hazarded as a fairly approximate guess, including £10,000 spent on entertaining foreign monarchs and monarchs on travelling. More royalties attended than at Queen Victoria's funeral but several expensive items on the programme, such as the naval pageant, were omitted. Even so, the cost was less than that of many foreign funerals, to say nothing of the imposing last rites of the great Duke of Wellington, on whose funeral £70,000 was spent.

ITEMS AT THE COURTS.

A fine of $1,000 was imposed on a native at the Magistracy to-day, for being in possession of opium.

Nineteen gamblers appeared before Mr. E. R. Hallifax, at the Magistracy to-day, when two defendants were fined $50 each and the remainder $25 each.

Messrs. E. D. Sassoon and Company sued Chau Kit, of 10, Shanghai Street, for $39, for three months' rent, in the Court of Summary Jurisdiction this morning. The defendant did not appear, and judgment was entered for the plaintiffs with costs.

A row took place at West Point between two rival clubs and at the Magistracy to-day four, who were arrested, were charged with being members of the Triad society. Inspector Robertson told Mr. E. R. Hallifax that the Captain Superintendent of Police had instructed him to withdraw the charge. His Worship assented.

As an Indian watchman was going his rounds at the back of No. 11, D'Aguilar Street about midnight on Sunday night he discovered a door open and on pursuing his investigations he found a small boy inside in the act of looking the place. When charged at the Magistracy this morning defendant was sentenced to be detained forty-eight hours and to receive twelve strokes of the birch.

Inspector Robertson prosecuted a native at the Magistracy this morning for breaking and entering a house in Connaught Road West. It appears the miscreant climbed up the waterpipe and gained access to the house by that means but he was leaving he ran right into the arms of a policeman. A sentence of six weeks' imprisonment with hard labour and six hours' stocks was imposed.

AMOI NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

AMOI, June 2.

The result of the Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament held on Friday last was a win for Mr. T. J. Fisher, of B. and S., and Miss Fitcher. This couple were winners by a big margin, the next being 4 games behind.

A Men's Doubles Handicap Tournament will be played this month, and there will be a big entry for the event without doubt.

The long awaited rain is upon us, and the Tennis Lawn will probably be closed for some days, if it continues.

BILLIARDS.

The finals of the Canton Club Pyramid Tournament have been reached, the participants being Dr. Ainslie and Mr. Nilsen. Last night the former knocked out Mr. H. B. Brown, much to everyone's surprise, in the semi-final, thus qualifying for his present position.

RICE.

There is no danger of any famine here now, as large imports of rice are expected this week. The Clara Jensen arrives tomorrow with 15,000 bags, from Saigon, the Beang Bee due about 6th with a large shipment from Bangkok, and steamers from Hongkong are bringing small lots continually. The price of potatoes, beans, and vegetables of all kinds has been steadily rising, but with plentiful rains they will cheapen again.

REVIEW.

The Undeniable Goodness, by F. MARION CRAWFORD. London, Macmillan and Co.

By using big type well spaced out the publishers have managed to put out a book with this rather short story by the late Mr. Marion Crawford. Its scant measure will be the only thing that readers will grumble at, however. Mr. Crawford must have been in very high spirits when he wrote it, for the story displays him in a new and very humorous condition of mind, quite unlike what he discloses in the Italian or American series of his novels. His theme leads itself to a pretty play of wit. Lady Jane Pollitt driven to despair by the susceptibility of her husband and sons, who invariably fall in love with her daughters' governesses if they are even approachably good-looking or mentally attractive, adventures for a lady who cannot boast either of 'charm of manner, symmetry of form, or brilliancy of conversation.' Only one person answers the advertisement, but she fills the bill admirably. Unfortunately for Lady Jane's peace of mind, this young lady, Miss Ellen Scott, applied for the post, it seems, after consultation with Lady Jane's oldest son, and her physical disabilities are really the result of a clever bit of 'making-up.'

Very briskly the story moves along, for the Pollitt family are really delightful people to become acquainted with, from the two young girls to the charming, well-preserved father. As was only to be expected the Undeniable Goodness turns out quite differently to what Lady Jane anticipated when she entered her service, and in the end that good dame finds her position even worse than before. Mr. Crawford never wrote anything so amusing as this brief story and the regret is therefore intensified that his cunning hand is now still in death.

WEATHER REPORT.

The following notice is issued from the Hongkong Observatory:

On the 6th at 12.05 p.m.—The barometer has fallen quickly in E. Japan owing to the depression which is moving Eastwards over the Sea of Japan.

The barometer has risen moderately to slightly over the China coast and at the same time, pressure is now high over the Pacific between Luzon and the Bonins.

Moderate or fresh S. winds may be expected in the Formosa Channel and over the northern shores of the China Sea. Hongkong rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. to-day, 0.90 inches.

Forecast for the 24 hours ending at noon to-morrow:

- 1.—Hongkong and Neighbourhood: S. winds, fresh to moderate showers.
- 2.—Formosa Channel: Same as No. 1.
- 3.—South coast of China between Hongkong and Lamook: Same as No. 1.
- 4.—South coast of China between Hongkong and Hainan: Same as No. 1.
